INTRODUCTION

After having researched and compiled several pages of Sacred Heart Church history for another project, I realized I was dissatisfied with the results. For one thing, I could not accurately locate the first church. It appeared one place as "at the edge of the prairie, near a Locust grove", another reference gave Walnut and Perry streets, and the Church directory, shown each week in the old Du Quoin Tribune of the 1870's, gave Hickory Street.

An ancient atlas was given to the Perry County Historical Society president, Mike Francois, and after he had looked at it, he told me there was something of interest for me on the Du Quoin plat. There, as plain as day, was 'Catholic Church' on a plot on Perry Street, so that it could have been described as either Hickory or Walnut and would have definitely been prairie and locust grove in 1866. The greatest surprise was the name, in large flowing script on the fly leaf--Rev. C. J. Eschmann. A bit unusual, to say the least. The old church was located and verified by the records at the Perry County Courthouse.

I had locations, buildings, years and the priests who had guided the parish, but I was still not satisfied with the work and could not tell what was wrong. One day I thought of the child's game of putting their hands together and saying, "Here's the church, here's the steeple, open the door and here's the people." That was my problem, the people. But that would take years of research, catching up on approximately 80 years of information--impossible!

And then came Hilda! Hilda Schneider, who for years had been collecting information. She volunteered to share her research. Out came the clippings, the notebooks, the pictures, the mementos of years and years, and there were the people. She would supply the information and I would compile and prepare it.

So, together, we offer this history of our parish, it's events, it's organizations, it's people. With all of the writing necessary to compile this information from Hilda's notes, my own questionable typing and the human ability to make errors, we will undoubtably have some mistakes. Hopefully, these will be few.

May you enjoy this history of Sacred Heart Parish as much as we have enjoyed it. God Bless.

SACRED HEART CHURCH of DU QUOIN, ILLINOIS

It is usually said that Chief Jean Baptiste Du Quoin was probably the first Catholic in this area. It was in 1719, when the Kaskaskia Indians moved into the "American Bottom" near present day Kaskaskia. As of 1750, there were approximately 600 Kaskaskias at this location. The settlement of Kaskaskia in 1766 had a church, the Jesuits' home and about 65 families. Doubtless the majority of the Indians had been converted. It is not known when the Kaskaskias began to keep a winter hunting camp in the Old Du Quoin area but it is probable that many of those who accompanied Chief Jean Baptiste to the winter hunting grounds were also Catholic.

There was very little church organization until about the 1850's. The Catholics met in homes, but many had never seen a priest, let alone attended mass. The first mass was said at the home of Michael Bradley, by Father Cusack of Vandalia. A marble topped three drawer chest served as the altar. After the mass a child, John Bradley, was baptised, making him the first to receive that sacrament in Perry County. From 1857 to 1866, masses were said every three or four months in the homes of Michael Bradley, Henry Horn, John Bradley, Dr. O'Rielly, Timothy Kelly, Mr. Day and Mr. Molter. Father Cusack was followed by Father Lambert, who served the small congregation until 1861. Father Lambert quite frequently celebrated mass at Henry Horn's house which stood on the same lot that afterward became the property of the congregation. Father Mark served the next two years and was followed by Father Vahey who served until 1865. The Sacred Heart of Jesus congregation was formed in 1863.

By 1866, Father Walshe was saying mass about every two months to 25 families when it was decided to build a church. At a meeting in the home of Nicholas Kigert, a committee was formed with members Henry Horn, James Hartigan, J. J. Higgins, Nicholas Kigert and Owen Reddington.

The following information for the land where the first Catholic Church was located in the Du Quoin area was taken from the Pinckneyville Courthouse records and from Roe Abstract Company.

July 26, 1866: warrenty deed from Illinois Central Iron and Coal Mining Company to Bishop H. D. Junckers, lots 1 and 2, Block 7, St. John Addition, 300 X 80 feet, no dollars. (From Deed Record Book U, Page 93.)

(Same land) From Bishop Junckers, who owned and wills to Rt. Rev. Peter Richard Kenrick, Archbishop of Diocese of St. Louis, in trust for Diocese of Alton. Will proven in Madison County, Ill., filed in Perry County, Ill. (Book

(Same land) Quit claim deed from Bishop Kenrick, to Rt. Rev. Peter Joseph Baltes, Bishop of Alton, Jan. 11, 1871. (Deed Record Y, Page 237.)

(Same land) From Rt. Rev. Peter Joseph Baltes, Bishop of Alton, to Roman Catholic Church of Sacred Heart of Jesus, Feb. 20, 1871. (Deed Record W, Page 528.)

A small portion of the west side of the strip of land, approximately forty feet, was not the property of the Catholic Church.

The October 31, 1867, Tribune stated "We have also been shown the articles of agreement for the erection of a new Catholic Church in the city. The building will be of brick, solid stone foundation, 40 by 50 feet, with Gothic doors and front windows. The probable cost will be, when completed, some $4000."

Tragedy struck the venture, for on January 2, 1868, the newspaper carried this item. "Blown down.--The south wall of the new Catholic Church, was blown down during Christmas day. Under the circumstances, the misfortune is quite serious, as it was the cause of delay in getting the roof on the building."

The new church was dedicated on April 19, 1868, in an imposing ceremony. Father Walsh, of Vandalia, assisted by the Centralia choir, performed the dedication service.

Early in December, 1870, the City Council ordered a slack sidewalk to be put down on the west side of Walnut street, to begin at the end of the existing plank sidewalk and extend to the Catholic Church on the north side of Perry street.

Mr. F. L. Sanford, a railroad section foreman, would haul Father Klocke on a railroad handcar to Tamaroa whenever it was necessary. Father Klocke would spend the night at the Sanford home and then travel back to Du Quoin by handcar.

Bishop Yuncker of Alton visited the parish in May, 1868 and in September of that year Father Charles Kloche was appointed pastor of the parish. He began improvements by having seats installed and plastering the interior of the building. A house previously owned by Henry Horn became the rectory. It and another small house had been purchased for $6,500. The rectory was large enough to allow Father Klocke to set up a school room for about eight students. This soon proved too small and the school was moved to the small house where John Masquelet taught for five years.

In November of 1872, it was announced that the Catholic Church was putting up a fine two story school building on West Main street, 40 x 24 feet. Twenty years later it was torn down and the present school was built.

The number of members grew to the extent that a division was necessary in 1871. A chapel was built at Todds Mill and St. Mary Magdaline's established. Pinckneyville became St. Bruno's and built their church in 1874. It was served by Father Klocke until the arrival of Father Riesen in 1878, who was followed in about a year by Father Ader.

The Du Quoin parish purchased land for a 40 acre cemetery in 1874. Due to several bad years, the farmers of the congregation were in dire financial straits and this put the church in a serious financial position also. One of the members, Henry Horn, generously donated $9000.00 which put the three hundred family parish back on its feet. Mr. Horn established a bank in 1877. Father Klocke opened a school for young men in the evenings, after Jan. 1, 1875, with classes in penmanship, grammer, U. S. history, geography, etc.

In 1882 the St. Anne's Altar Society was organized. Mrs. Christina Horn was the first president.

The thin walled brick church, which sat on the open prairie near a locust grove, was severely damaged by a storm and plans were made to build a new church. This one would be in down town Du Quoin. When the first church was built in 1867 St. Johns and Du Quoin were not too different in size. But in the next 21 years Du Quoin had greatly outdistanced the neighboring settlement in growth.

The purchase of the new site is recorded as: Nov. 3, 1870, from Henry Horn and wife, Mary, for $6,500. all lots numbered 5, 6, 7, and 8, in Block 4, Railroad Addition, excepting a parcel fronting 45 feet on Main and running back 90 feet, being a part of lots 7 and 8. (Book Y, Page 180.)

While the new church was being erected, services were held in a store building. Adolph Schneider recalled how the lime was slacked in a huge hole west of the site. Lime was put in a wooden box in the hole, cold water was added and the concoction was stirred until it quit boiling, which might be three or four hours. The logs for the columns in the church were hauled by Edward Eisenhauer, Sr. and George G. Schneider. These men would get up very early in the morning and take their teams and wagons to Du Quoin, where they would get logs and haul them to Vergennes to be sawed into suitable form. This trip took a very, long time. Many, many other parishioners gave their time, labor, money and love for this fine building, which has been referred to as "the Cathedral of Southern Illinois."

A farewell mass was said at the old church at 8 A.M. on Nov. 4, 1890. The sermon was by Vicar General Cluse in Italian and by Rev. Mierzowski, O. F. M., in Polish. A procession was formed and made it's way (about one mile) to the new church. The dedication started at 10 A.M., followed by a Pontifical High Mass in both English and German.

Two large stoves, such as those found in railway stations, heated the main body of the church. A smaller woodburning stove was in the sacristy. The altars were of highly polished wood. The pews had been handmade by men of the congregation.

The old school was torn down in 1892. It was replaced by the present one and nuns came at that time to teach the young. The new school had a kitchen, a storage room and indoor toilet facilities.

From this point, happenings will be in year reference.

Mar. 1908

In March, the dedication ceremony of the Baptism of New Bells was held. The three large bells were cast by the H. McShane Bell Foundry Company in Baltimore, Maryland. The largest of the bells was baptised "Jesus", the next size was baptised "Mary" and the least one was baptised "Joseph." Thus, the Holy Family is honored each time the bells ring. The large bell weighs approximately 2,500 pounds, the next, approximately 2,000 pounds and the smallest, approximately 1,500 pounds. For several years, a young man, Victor Ritter, helped ring these bells. Later, in 1953, a bell ringer suddenly quit and Ritter was asked to help out on a temporary basis. "Vic", as he was known by most, was temporary for 29 years. The entire family, including his wife, Louella, and children, Carl, Barbara and Victor, became bell ringers also. The bells had to be rung for the 6 A.M., 12 noon and 6 P.M. Angelus, plus masses, weddings and funerals. Needless to say this schedule kept the Ritters close to home, or church, most of the time. At times, when all three bells had to be rung, Louella would ring the large bell while the other two were rung by Vic. Ringing bells is not an easy task. The 90 foot ropes might break, the bell might turn completely over, wrapping it's rope and then when one tried to stop at the correct number of rings it would pull the ringer up off the floor. An electronic bell ringing system was installed in 1982. Victor Ritter died three years later.

The K. of C. assisted in the Baptism of the New Bells. The dedication was by Bishop John J. Jansen, assisted by Rev. C. J. Eschmann of Prairie Du Rocher, Rev. K. Schauerte of Murphysboro and local priests, Rev. Klocke and Rev. August Hunnewinkle. Shortly after this Rev. Hunnewinkle went to Elizabethtown.

The Congregation.

This Memorial is being presented to you as a token of appreciation for the unceasing labors and willing sacrifices performed for the people of SS. Peter and Paul's Church by the late Rev. Father Charles J. Eschmann.

It should also serve as a token of appreciation from those in charge of the congregation as a whole, and in particular to the Reverend Assistant; the two trustees and the committee in charge of the funeral arrangements; to the women of the parish, who served the lunch for the visiting priests and relatives; to the men of the parish, who stood as guards of honor at the wake; to the young men who arranged the decorations in the church; to all the friends who served in any way to make the funeral of their deceased pastor a fitting one.

JESUS!

MARY!

JOSEPH!

PRAYER!

O God, who amongst apostolic priests has adorned Thy servant CHARLES with the sacerdotal dignity, grant, we beseech Thee, that he may also be associated with them in everlasting fellowship.

Through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

History of Reverend C. J. Eschmann

Father Charles J. Eschmann was born in Belleville, June 11, 1862, and attended St. Peter's school there. His classical studies were made at the Franciscan College in Teutopolis and his philosophical course was taken at St. Francis De Sales Seminary, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Bishop Baltus of Alton then sent the young seminarian to the University of Innsbruck, Austria, where he completed his theological course and was ordained to the Holy Priesthood on April 7, 1889, by the Most Rev. Simon Aichner, Bishop of Brixen.

Returning to the United States in the following summer, Father Eschmann first served for one month at Fayetteville as substitute for the Rev. C. Hoffmans. On October 3, 1889, he was appointed pastor of St. Philip Neri's Church, Mt. Vernon, and attended Okawville and McLeansboro from there as missions. This appointment he held until November 4, 1891, when he was named pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Cairo.

Reputation Established at Cairo

Father Eschmann went to Cairo on the feast of his Patron Saint, November 4, 1891, to take charge of St. Patrick's Church. This parish was in dire need of a new church and the present rock church was built under the direction of the new pastor. The manner in which he guided this construction, the knowledge of the different trades he possessed, and his shrewdness in handling the finances, established his reputation as a builder. In 1902, the year that he left Cairo, he was called upon by the hospital staff to build two new wings to St. Mary's hospital. His splendid work was remembered eighteen years later when St. Mary's hospital again intended to build. So in 1920 Father Eschmann undertook to superintend the building of the new wing. This he so ably accomplished with the late Dr. W. F. Grinstead, who was head of the hospital staff at that time, that a stained glass window was erected in the south entrance of the new wing as a lasting memorial to them.

The people of Cairo always had a high regard for Father Eschmann and to give expression of their sorrow upon learning of the death of their esteemed friend, the bell of St. Patrick's Church was tolled for fifteen minutes.

Other Pastorates

Leaving his monuments in Cairo, Father Eschmann spent nine years as pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Prairie du Rocher, attending also to the mission of St. Leo's, Modoc. On February 28, 1911, he was transferred to Sacred Heart Church, DuQuoin.

After eleven successful years as pastor at the DuQuoin Church, the Most Rev. Henry Althoff named Father Eschmann pastor of St. Mary's Church, Centralia, where the parish was in the midst of building a hospital. Here the competency of the builder and financier was put to an acid test. The work was successfully completed, and, when Father Eschmann left twenty-eight months after his appointment to take up his new duties in Waterloo, the parish and hospital were on a firm financial basis.

PASTORATE AT SS. PETER AND PAUL'S

On August 5th, 1924, Father Eschmann undertook his new duties at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Waterloo. After having made himself thoroughly acquainted with the conditions of the Church property, he called a meeting with his trustees and together with them made plans to take care of the immediate needs of the parish. On his numerous tours of inspection of the buildings he found many things wanting in the church. This he undertook to repair first. Nine new pews were added to the church to accommodate the people. In the sacristy there was a real necessity to provide dust-proof cabinets for the vestments. At the same time the chapel was erected in the convent and also needed a vestment case. These two needs were promptly filled. The organ in the church was of an old style water-driven type and needed a new motor. A new motor was installed, but after a short time the organ had to be replaced. The present pipe-organ was gotten under his pastorate. There were other repairs needed in the church which he took care of as time passed. The sanctuary was rebuilt, a new confessional was installed, and the whole church artistically frescoed. A new roof was put on the church and cement sidewalks made all around the church property.

The rectory was also in dire need of repairs. The windows were all weather-stripped and the interior was remodeled to some extent and the walls received a new coat of paint. The heating system also broke down and so Father Eschmann had an oil burner installed. Another oil burner was installed in the convent and school. The last of the improvements was the sanitary plumbing system put in the school for the convenience of the school children.

Whatever Father Eschmann built, he built well. He had studied the arts and sciences, he had made special studies of building materials, and he knew how to build economically. He could read blueprints and checked up on all details so that the parish would not have to suffer for mistakes later on.

Being blessed with extraordinary gifts of mind and also in the temporal things he used them all for the greater honor of God and the church. He was constantly concerned with the spiritual and temporal welfare of those under his charge. This concern made him fearless and when he had to rebuke the parish or individuals, he did it because it was his duty as a representative of God and pastor of souls.

One of the chief concerns of Father Eschmann was for the school children. He was loved and respected by all. The children knew that in their pastor they had a real and sincere friend. They were not afraid to come to him with their little troubles and difficulties. Father Eschmann, although possessed with such a great intellect, could place himself at the level of those children and discuss their affairs with them so that they could comprehend his excellent advice. How much the children loved him could be seen on the day when Father Eschmann lay in state at the rectory and all the children walked single file past the coffin to take a last look at their departed pastor and friend. Many a child burst into tears when they realized that their trusted friend could not speak to them anymore.

Not only the children, but the whole congregation mourns his loss. As time will pass the people will discover the fine traits that their pastor possessed. He was generous of nature and God supplied him with the necessary means so that he could satisfy it. In all his charities he always had the principle to do the work quietly and not to brag about it, or publish it. We learned of one of his great charities when Monsgr. Cahill preached the funeral sermon in which he publicly stated that all he has, his education, his priesthood, he owes to the generosity of Father Eschmann. As in this case and so many others Father Eschmann did not care what people said and did against him, because he knew that he was not working for an earthly reward, but for a heavenly crown. And so, if God sees fit, the goodness of this priest will become more and more apparent to those who knew him.

The Last Rites

Father Eschmann, who had been a priest of God for forty-eight years, died at the Rectory of SS. Peter and Paul's, May 25, 1937, at approximately one o'clock in the afternoon. He received the last rites of the church administered by his assistant. The funeral Mass took place on Friday, May 28, 1937, at 9:30 A. M. The priests recited the Office of the Dead and the Priest's Choir sang the mass. The officers of the Mass were: His Excellency, the Most Rev. Henry Althoff, celebrant; Rt. Rev. C. Gilmartin, presbyter assistant; Rev. J. Immethun and Rev. C. Frankovich, deacon and subdeacon of the Mass; Rev. B. Moorman and Rev. C. Hellrung, deacons of honor; Very Rev. M. J. Gruenewald, Rev. S. Freund, and Rev. J. A. Duehren, masters of ceremonies. Monsgr. Cahill delivered the funeral oration and His Excellency also paid a splendid tribute to the deceased priest of his diocese.

After the services at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, the funeral procession moved on to Green Mount Cemetery at Belleville, Illinois, where the last prayers were recited by Father F. Kaiser, pastor of St. Luke's Church, at Belleville.

In your charity remember Father Eschmann in your prayers.

The date of this picture has not been determined, possibly it was taken in the 1950's.

Two reminders of the past history of this church will be found today in Alongi's--two of the old lights.

Our efforts to locate the three drawer chest, or 'sideboard', on which the first mass was said, were not successful. Perhaps other historians will do this. We have only skimmed the surface of this church's history. Our hope is that others will attempt to complete the history of Sacred Heart Church of Du Quoin.
